manage it for you!

Need to outsource your EDI? Let the experts at 1 EDI Source manage it for you!

There are great benefits to automating your B2B exchange with an EDI solution. Some of these benefits include: streamlined business processes, reduced manual entry, more accurate data flowing into your ERP or other back office systems and exchanges with your most important business partners. EDI compliance is often required by trading partners and customers, making the choice to adopt a new B2B operation a must for your business.

Implementing a fully automated and integrated B2B EDI operation is only half the journey. The second half is the ability to manage and maintain the flow of data through your systems and retain compliance with your trading partner's strict and often changing requirements.

Benefits of Electronic Document Exchange Automation

IMPROVED DOCUMENT CYCLE TIME

- Reduced business cycle time is a competitive advantage
- Automatic document conversion into actionable events (i.e. order or claims) in internal applications

IMPROVED ACCURACY

- Virtually eliminates human data entry errors
- Data derived from internal system databases has been previously validated

SECURITY

- External electronic data transmissions are encrypted and secure

COST SAVINGS

- Reduce overhead costs by removing human document handling
- Reduced inventory costs from lower inventory levels and shorter order processing and delivery cycles

“Very pleased with our partnership with 1 EDI Source. Always very attentive to our needs, and consistently follows through on our behalf.”

Retain the Freedom to Bring Your EDI Back In-House

HQXchange™ Gives You Full Control and Visibility of Your EDI Operations

Choosing our MX managed EDI solution gives you the freedom to switch back to managing your own EDI. If at any time, your business is better suited to bring EDI management in-house, we can seamlessly transition you from MX to our HQX solution, which is the core software engine that powers our MX solution. An HQX implementation allows you to have full control and visibility of your EDI operations in your environment and achieve self-sufficiency to onboard new trading partners and manage the EDI data integration process.

- Automated trading partner onboarding for easy and fast migration.
- Scalable software allowing for multiple trading partners, multiple users and multiple environments.
- In-house expert service and support.
- Managed by exception model, which notifies you and stops documents before they cause problems.

On-Premise

With the HQX On-premise option, you take full control of your EDI operations and all of your data stays on your servers. If needed, our experts will assist with set up and integration and then your team has full control over the environment.

OR

Hosted

If you don't want to maintain your own servers, but still need a full-service EDI solution, you can choose our HQX hosted solution. The hosted solution takes server maintenance off of your plate and stores all of your data on our servers. Our IT experts monitor and maintain underlying infrastructure servers, backups, disaster recovery and trading partner communication channels, so you don't have to.

“1 EDI Source plays a vital role servicing our company's EDI needs providing support for both new trading partner relationships and production support of existing exchanges. We consider 1 EDI Source an extension of our in-house team for all things EDI. We value the quality professional services consistently provided by our managed services team. Thank you.”
